

Biography

Jordyn Lorenz earned her undergraduate degree in Accounting from Sam Houston State University, after which she worked for years as a Senior Fraud Auditor for a Houston-based Fortune 500 company. With the dismal outcomes and disenchantment that came along with investigating white-collar crimes, Jordyn decided she wanted to invest her time, skills and talents in empowering those in the workplace. This one decision led her to her calling of educating, motivating, and inspiring people in the workplace to pursue their absolute best.

Jordyn went on to obtain her Masters in Organizational Communication from Howard University, where she also began working as a Teaching Assistant. It wasn't until after graduating (with a 4.0) that Jordyn was able to combine her love of organizational communication, with her skills as a trainer, and her heart as a teacher. This career mosaic led to many successful years as an organizational consultant where Jordyn, through organizational assessments, workshops, and trainings, was able to help leaders strengthen their teams, while at the same time better equipping their leaders to do what they hired them to do – LEAD.

Since her years of consulting, Jordyn has fulfilled her dream of establishing a role inside of an organization for the purpose of educating and inspiring those at the forefront of the American workforce. She has carved out a place for herself as an organizational trainer, currently serving as Training Manager of Harris County Public Health.

Jordyn has taught as Adjunct Professor at Howard University, Texas Southern University, University of Houston Downtown, and HCC Stafford & Central campuses; equipping students in the areas of communication theory, intercultural communication, interpersonal communication, small group communication, business and professional communication, and public speaking. Jordyn is passionate about young people becoming more communicatively competent and emotionally intelligent, therefore she continues to teach courses whenever she can.

Jordyn is a John Maxwell certified Trainer, Speaker, and Coach, mentored by John C. Maxwell himself (along with his world-class faculty), and she teaches and trains professionals in the area of Leadership Development, as she continues to engage her passion of helping leaders develop their leaders.

It is Jordyn's calling to inspire everyone to become aware of their power of influence, as she encourages them to embrace their potential to be more impactful leaders in the world around them.

Harris County Public Health

(832) 927-7406

Jordyn.Lorenz@phs.hctx.net

Classes Currently Offered

Becoming a Person of Influence

Developing the Leader
Within You

Becoming a Person of Influence

Creating positive influence will not only be a catalyst to your own success, it will become the legacy you will leave behind. Appreciate the principles of influence, the importance of influence, and its direct impact on your leadership ability. Learn simple, insightful ways to interact more positively with others, and watch your personal and organizational success go off the charts.

Developing the Leader Within You

Have you recently been thrust into a leadership position and are not sure how to lead others? Do you aspire to lead teams but are currently only leading yourself? If leadership is what you are needing, Developing the Leader Within You is crucial in your development. Based on the book by John Maxwell, this course will teach the basic principles of being a leader, the all-important Five Levels of Leadership, and provides practices and principles that you can apply instantly to improve your leadership skills. You will learn how to: build trust through personal integrity, prioritize, create positive change and understand the process involved, how to develop people, crucial problem solving techniques, articulate visions and goals for your organization, become character-driven vs being emotion-driven, and much, much more.